

CASKET
OF TOYS.

CONCORD, N. H.
R. MERRILL & SON.

No. 6.

War-horse and soldier. The soldier is blowing a trumpet.

THE INDIAN.

COME, Henry, I will tell you a story of the Indians, whom we call red men. They have black hair and dark eyes. They once dwelt where we now live.

When first found, they had no tool made of steel. Each man had a stone axe, a stone knife, and a bow to shoot with.

With these they would kill game for food. No one knows where the red men came from.

Engine.

Car.

Steamboat.

Canal-boat.

Cart.

Wagon.

Horse and Boy.

Cow.

Ox.

Sheep.

Turtle.

NOTHING BUT BAA!

LITTLE Fanny and Lucy,
One sunshiny day,
Went to walk in the meadow,
And have some play.

They said to a sheep,
'Pray, how is your mama?'
But the lazy sheep answered
Them nothing but 'baa!'

GOOD CHILDREN.

WHAT a pretty sight to see
A little brother, every day,
As he travels to the school,
Lead his sister in the way.

Travel on, my little dears,
Lovingly your hours employ,
And lead each other to that way
Where children live in endless joy.

GOING TO SCHOOL.

Boys should go to school, and learn to spell, and read, and write, if they wish to be good, and great, and wise men. And girls must learn too, as well as boys. Youth is the time to learn. Strive with all your might to learn all you are taught. No one likes to see a dunce.

WILLIAM W. WOOD
I have been to school
and have to work and read
and when I have time to do good and great and wise men
that give me their wisdom
well as they. I have to do that to know. I have to all your rights to learn all you can find. I have to
to see a dream.

R. MERRILL & SON,
CONCORD, N. H.

PUBLISH

GEMS FOR CHILDREN.

Child's Book.

Book of 100 Pictures.

Casket for Girls and Boys.

Stories and Hymns.

Museum for Young Children.

Girls' and Boys' Books.

Forester's Keepsake.

Panorama for Young Folks.

150 Stories about Indians.

Daily Food, &c.